ATOMIC BOMBHARNESSED ENERGY
PLANT DEVELOPED AT LOS ALAMOS

Los Alamos, N. M., Aug. 29 (AP)—A significant stride toward an atomic power plant, involving a harnessed version of the atomic bomb, was announced today by the atomic energy commission.

The commission said it had developed an atomic reaction plant, called a "pile," which actually is "a controlled form of the atomic bomb."

In it, an atomic explosion releases a steady, sustained flow of energy instead of turning it loose in an instantaneous, crushing blast. And operators can control the rate at which energy is generated.

The atomic furnace is a long way from being in itself a plant which can generate useful power for industrial or other purposes by splitting atoms.

Plutonium Used
But Dr. Norris E. Bradbury, director of the commission's Los Alamos scientific laboratory, said the plant supplies a more intense source of "fast neutrons" and it is hoped this will "make possible the study of fast neutron chain reactions in more detail, and thus be another step toward finding the best type of chain reactor for the production of useful power."

He said the plant, developed secretly at Los Alamos, has been operated successfully since last November.

It differs from other atomic "piles" in two major respects:

1. It uses the man-made element plutonium, which is the explosive material in the atomic bomb, rather than the natural element uranium.

2. It uses fast neutrons, produced from atom splitting.

To keep the chain reaction going when uranium atoms are split, the neutrons resulting from the fission have to be slowed down.

The scientists say that at a slower speed, a neutron has a better chance of sticking in the nucleus.

Idol Of Bullfight
Fans Dies Of His Wounds In Cordoba

Cordoba, Spain, Aug. 29 (AP)—Manuel Rodriguez, 30, who as "Manolete" was the idol of bullfight fans of two continents, died early today, less than 12 hours after he had been gored by a bull in the arena.

Manolete received his mortal wound in a setting which symbolized the "Gold, Silk, Blood and Sun" of the Spanish national fiesta.

Tonight his body reposed in Linares, 60 miles west of Cordoba, in the salon of the home he had bought for his mother and sisters with the wealth of seven years of stardom in the plazas of Spain, Mexico, Peru, Colombia and Venezuela.

Manolete could command as much as $25,000 for an afternoon performance. His personal fortune was estimated at around $4,000,000.

Living Standards
Of German People
To Be Stepped Up

By WES GALLAGHER
Berlin, Aug. 29 (AP)—The British and American military governments announced today their plan to raise the permitted ceiling of industry in their two German zones to approximately the standard of 1936; increase exports to 15 per cent above that year, and to hike the present German living standard to 75 per cent of that basic period.

The plan, announced after a six-week delay occasioned by French objections resulting in a three-power conference to which Russia protested, is a drastic revision of the four-power agreement of March, 1946. In effect it means a sharp cut in German industrial plants and machinery that will be available for the reparations for which Russia has been clamoring.

The plan nearly doubles the steel production allowed under the four-power agreement for all Germany; quadruples passenger automobile production; increases chemical production by 42 per cent; ups the level in machinery, optics, plastics, electrical engineering and cement industries, and contemplates the cancelling of the ban on light metal industries such as aluminum, beryllium, vanadium and magnesium.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American commander, and Air Marshal Sir Sholto Douglas, British commander, said the new plan was necessary to create a self-sustaining economy, produce exports to bring in $2,000,000,000 a year and save American and British taxpayers that outlay, and to enable Germany's industrial potential to make a contribution to European recovery under the Marshall plan or some other plan.

At a news conference Clay and Douglas disclosed that the new plan envisages a basic ration of 2,000 calories daily per German, and a living standard 75 per cent of that of 1936. They said France had agreed "fundamentally" that Germany's industrial production must be raised to insure a sound Europe.

BOTTLE TOSSING
ENDS UP PARTYThree Jailed For Giving
Teen-Agers Beer In Detroit Spree

Detroit, Aug. 29 (AP)—Three men were jailed and a young woman placed on probation today as the aftermath of a wild "teen-aged beer party" which ended in a bottle-throwing contest.

Police said a 16-year-old parolee from the boys' vocational school at Lansing broke into a hardware store in an alcoholic stupor at the height of the party.

Recorder's Judge John P. Scallen asserted that "the parents are as much to blame as anybody; these children should have been at home."

He sentenced Clarence La Fear, 23, chief lieutenant at Eastwood Park, Louis Scavone, 23, a city surveyor, and Gene Becco, 22, a factory worker, to serve 90 days and pay fines of $100 each for furnishing liquor to minors.

Katherine Memelee, 21, was fined $100 and placed on a year's probation on a similar charge.

Police accused the adults of buying eight cases of beer for a party held Aug. 26 at the home of a 16-year-old girl whose parents were away.

Miss Memelee said only about 30 persons were invited to the party but that an additional 40 "crashed the gate."

Police were called when the juveniles began throwing empty bottles on the roofs of adjoining homes.

Robber Is Unlucky
In Detroit Holdup;
Bullets Fall Out

Detroit, Aug. 29 (AP)—Lady Luck frowned on a shaggy-haired youthful bandit when he tried to hold up Mrs. Mary Slomski, 46, a tavern operator early today.

The bandit was waving a pistol when the bullets suddenly fell out of the weapon. He tried to scoop them up but fled when neighbors rushed to the scene in response to Mrs. Slomski's screams.

BOTTLES SCARE BANDITS
Chicago, Aug. 29 (AP)—Mrs. Catherine Becker, 38, mother of two children, was cleaning her husband's tavern today.

Two gunmen entered and announced "this is a stickup."

Mrs. Becker, holding two empty liquor bottles, let go with both of them. Although she missed with both, the flying glass sent the would-be holdup men scurrying.

Tuned-Up Warplanes
Set For Trophy Dash
To Cleveland Today

San Nuys, Calif., Aug. 29 (AP)—Thirteen converted warplanes, tuned to the finest degree, were under lock and key at Metropolitan airport as their pilots awaited the takeoff tomorrow morning in the $25,000 Bendix trophy dash to Cleveland.

Official departure time is 7 a.m. (Pacific Standard Time) (10 a.m. CDT) but one flier, Jane Page Hlavacek, of Wilmette, Ill., will depart an hour and a half earlier if she can gain permission of the other pilots. She wants to reach Cleveland early enough to participate in another dash in the National Air Races tomorrow.

After the official start the ships will take off at five-minute intervals, and race officials said they hoped to get them all on their way within an hour.

William P. Odom, of round the world record fame, reached here from Houston, Tex., today in his clipped winged P-47, with which he says he expects to win. He was accompanied by his friend, R. A. Cole, flying the "Reynolds Bombshell," a converted A-26 bomber.

Cole is not eligible for the trophy dash, but he indicated he might go along anyway for the ride.

A prime favorite is last year's winner, Paul Mantz, movie stunt man and charter service operator. He will be flying the same P-51 in which he averaged 435.5 miles an hour in last year's dash, but has installed a few gadgets with which he expects to coax a little more speed out of the sleek Mustang.

Jacqueline Cochran, Newark, N. J., announced late today that she would not be at the controls of her P-52 in which she placed second last year, and that the craft would be piloted by Bruce Gimbel, Greenwich, Conn.

The committee said either is eligible and that Miss Cochran need not decide until takeoff time. Mantz has another P-51 entered, to be piloted by his associate, Thomas Mayson, Van Nuys, Calif.

Mantz says he wouldn't be surprised "if we finish one-two." Mayson was third last year.

Mantz has a $10,000 side bet with Glenn McCarthy, Houston oil man whose P-38 will be flown by James Rubie, also of Houston.

Leaving after the last of the competitors has declared the field will be four Army jet planes, P-80s, which are not eligible for the prize money. One of the Shooting Stars will be piloted by Col. Leon W. Gray, Casa Grande, Ariz., who led the entire field last year.

First place will be good for $10,000, second $5,500, third $3,000, fourth $2,500, fifth $1,500, sixth $1,000 and seventh $500. There is also a $1,000 purse for the first woman to finish.

The Archbishop's statement appeared in his diocesan weekly paper, as a spreading coal strike, accompanied by a threat of violence to the head of the National Union of Mineworkers, spread through Yorkshire in a new threat to Britain's recovery program.

The National Coal Board, which administers the nationalized pits, said 14,701 men were on strike at 14 mines, but reports from the area quoted by the British press association put the number at 25,000 men and 16 mines.

Dr. Garbett said a coalition government was "at present entirely out of the question" but that "united action by all parties" would help the national production effort.

Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, head of the government while Attlee is on vacation, declined comment on the Archbishop's proposal.

STAFF CHIEF
TOO HOPEFULAGGRESSION AGAINST FREE MEN SEEN AS FUTURE THREAT

BY JOE HALL
New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, in an address he described "as something of an official farewell," told the American Legion today he did not foresee "a global war as an immediate threat."

The Army chief of staff and supreme commander of World War Two, who leaves military service early next year to become head of Columbia university, declared the world at present "comprises two great camps"—one grouped around dictatorships and the other democracy.

But, he said, "no great nation is today in position deliberately to provoke a long and exhausting conflict with any hope of gain."

Must Be Prepared
Eisenhower's long-run view of the international situation was less optimistic, however.

"As long as deliberate aggression against the rights of free men and the existence of free government may be a part of the international picture, we must be prepared for whatever this may finally mean to us," he said.

The chief of staff, who shared the platform with Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz and Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, received an ovation from the 6,000 Legionnaires at the second session of the 29th national convention, held in the gaily-decorated 71st Regiment armory on lower Park avenue.

Most of the speechmaking was concluded today, with tomorrow reserved for the Legion parade up Fifth avenue. Final business sessions will be held Sunday at the armory.

Eisenhower gave emphatic endorsement to a universal military training program, which was backed strongly by President Truman, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Sec. V. Forrestal and other notables at the opening session. A campaign to win congressional approval of a training law has become the convention's dominant theme.

Nimitz, chief of naval operations, asked the Legionnaires to act "as sentinels to see that no one branch of the armed forces is permitted to decline to the point where it can no longer carry out its share of responsibility for the national security."

Britain Backs Down
"Each branch of our armed forces—like each leg of a three-legged stool—must be as effective as the others," he said.

Nimitz acknowledged there had been some suspicion of the armed forces unification law "principally on the basis that it is detrimental to the Navy," but declared:

"I am personally convinced  that if it is administered in the spirit with which it was created, the Navy will not suffer any disadvantage, nor will national security."

The modern Crusoes—who flew southward from key west Monday to inspect Swan Island for a proposed cattle quarantine station after the government had asked for bids—complained bitterly of their plight, but their clamoring brought no gasoline.

As a result, three men twiddled their thumbs on tiny Swan Island, 600 miles south of Miami, while their plane lay useless for lack of fuel. A fourth man was marooned on lonely Grand Cayman Island, waiting to be picked up.

The men are Albert Jones, pilot, of Orlando, Fla.; William A. Krusen and his father, L. A. Krusen, of Tampa, Fla., who are on Swan Island, and a "Mr. Parker," who was dropped off Tuesday at Grand Cayman to look into the prospects of a new airline between the island and Tampa, Fla.

The party—equipped with two-way radio—ran into fuel trouble when the radio range station they expected to guide them to Swan Island was not operating, and they decided on a longer route, via Bonaco Island, using up all of their gasoline. They gambled that Swan Island would have fuel at its weather station. They guessed wrong.

Round-Table Conference
Of All Parties Urged
To Save Empire

By ED CREAGH
London, Aug. 29 (AP)—Dr. Cyril Garbett, Archbishop of York and second ranking prelate of the Church of England, in an unusual move, proposed today that Prime Minister Attlee call a round-table conference of all political parties to save Britain from what he termed economic ruin.

The Archbishop's statement appeared in his diocesan weekly paper, as a spreading coal strike, accompanied by a threat of violence to the head of the National Union of Mineworkers, spread through Yorkshire in a new threat to Britain's recovery program.

The National Coal Board, which administers the nationalized pits, said 14,701 men were on strike at 14 mines, but reports from the area quoted by the British press association put the number at 25,000 men and 16 mines.

Dr. Garbett said a coalition government was "at present entirely out of the question" but that "united action by all parties" would help the national production effort.

Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, head of the government while Attlee is on vacation, declined comment on the Archbishop's proposal.

Moscow Sent Tough
Note; Powers Speed
Freedom For Korea

BY EDWARD E. BOMAR

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The United States today called a conference of the Big Four Pacific powers to act on sweeping new proposals aimed at breaking a stubborn deadlock with Russia over Korea's independence.

In a toughly-worded note to Moscow, Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett invited Russia to take part in the conference with the United States, Britain and China, to be held in Washington Sept. 8. The object would be to hasten freedom for Korea, now split into two occupation zones administered by the United States and Russia.

Soviet refusal to take part would open the way for an appeal to the United Nations or for an independent American effort to build up the economic strength of the U. S. zone in south Korea.

Lovett in his note:

(1) Charged Russia with violating pledges made by Foreign Minister Molotov;

(2) Brushed off as without basis Molotov's assertions that pro-Soviet elements were being "persecuted" in the American occupation zone, and

(3) Announced that the United States "in good conscience" could no longer be a party to delay in carrying out the 1945 Moscow agreement to give the Koreans independence.

This agreement called for a five-year period of trusteeship under a single democratic government for the entire country, to be followed by complete freedom. The provisional regime would take the place of the present separate occupation zones.

Lovett proposed instead that the four power conference consider a radical new procedure of granting freedom, to be carried out under United Nations supervision.

STATE HIGHWAY
PLANS OUTLINED

Complete Program To Be Ready For Legislature
Next Year

Detroit, Aug. 29 (AP)—A complete road and highway program, now being formulated, covering the needs of city, county and state, was announced today after a meeting between the highway study committee and a special legislative committee recently set up by the state legislature.

J. P. Buckley, of Lansing, engineer-director of the study committee, declared the program would be based on "the most complete and accurate estimate of city, county, and state highway needs ever made in the United States."

The reports of the committee will be ready for the special legislative session that Gov. Siler had indicated he will call next year, he said.

Reporting on the committee's work, Don B. Smith, of Detroit, chairman of the study committee, said the evolution of the motor vehicle "underlines the necessity for early action by the legislature on an over-all road and street program to meet present needs."

Traffic on Michigan roads and street as well as motor vehicle registration will reach an all-time high this year, he said.

London, Saturday, Aug. 30 (AP)—A wing of Sunninghill Park, the Windsor forest mansion given to Princess Elizabeth to serve as her home after her marriage to Lt. Philip Mountbatten, was seriously damaged by fire early today, the British Press Association reported.

The roof and rooms of the mansion's southern wing, unoccupied and yet unfurnished, were considerably damaged, the report said.

There was no indication of the cause of the blaze.

PACTS COVER
NAZI GERMANY
WAR PUPPETSCAPITALS RELIEVED
BY FORMAL ENDING OF HOSTILITIES

BY ROBERT HEWETT
London, Aug. 29 (AP)—Russia ratified the long-delayed peace treaties with Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland tonight, bringing in sight the formal end of hostilities with five wartime allies of Nazi Germany.

Announcement of the treaty ratifications was made by the Moscow radio which said the action was taken by the presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the U. S. S. R.

Ratification by the Soviet Union completed action by the four major powers on the treaties drafted last year in Paris. The victors in World War II still have to decide upon peace terms for Germany, Austria and Japan.

Troops Go Home
Formal ending of hostilities against Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland will come when the instruments of ratification are deposited in Paris and Moscow. Withdrawal of some occupation troops is scheduled to follow.

The United States, Britain and France took action on the five treaties months ago, but Russia, by delaying action, had held up the return toward peace time conditions in the beaten nations.

The first reaction in European capitals to the Moscow announcement was one of relief. But diplomatic sources tempered their approval by pointing out that Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria already have been accused by the United States and Britain of violating the "human rights" sections of the pacts.

Reports also indicated that the Russian ratification—which came only a few days after approval was rushed through the parliament of Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary—was given to facilitate the admission of eastern European nations into the United Nations. The U. N. general assembly meets in New York Sept. 16.

The Italian minister of the interior, Mario Scelba, declared in Rome that Russia apparently delayed ratification of the Italian treaty in order to keep Italy from gaining United Nations membership last week.

Defeated Nations Lose
The terms of the five pacts deprive the defeated nations of much territory, a large part of their defense forces and $1,330,000,000 in reparations. Italy is reduced to the status of a third-rate power, stripped of colonies, indebted by reparations, her homeland reduced and her army and navy cut to a relative shadow.

Only two countries will be relieved of the direct influence of foreign troops by the formal ending of hostilities.

Under the terms of the pacts Russia is pledged to withdraw her troops from Bulgaria, while the United States and Britain must evacuate Italy within 90 days of the deposit of the instruments of ratification.

Russia is permitted to maintain troops in Romania and Hungary to "protect lines of communication" with the Soviet occupation zone in Austria. In Finland, Russia has a peace treaty agreement for a 50-year lease on the Porkkala naval base.

NATIONAL GUARD DAY SEPT. 16

President Asks Full Support Of Citizens For Defense Unit

Reminding citizens that "a responsibility rests upon them for the support of the National Guard of the United States" and urging them to assist in the organization, recruiting and development of the Guard in every way possible, President Harry S. Truman yesterday proclaimed Tuesday, Sept. 16, as National Guard Day.

Escanaba is the home of Company C, Delta county unit which is part of the 107th Engineer Battalion, Upper Peninsula unit of the Michigan National Guard. The day will be observed here by members of the Guard and citizens of Escanaba.

Sept. 16 marks the seventh anniversary of the entrance of the National Guard into the nation's service during the emergency immediately preceding World War II.

"The security of our nation depends that the National Guard be fully manned, equipped and trained as a force immediately available in time of national danger," the President said in his proclamation.

"In order that we may give special recognition to men of the National Guard who have given their services and their lives to their country and to those who are continuing to give their services for the security of their country, I do hereby proclaim Tuesday, Sept. 16, 1947, as National Guard day."

The president directed that the United States flag be displayed on all public buildings on that day.

Fires Burn Over 14,368 Acres Of Michigan Timber

Lansing, (P)—A total of 1,164 forest fires have blackened 14,368 acres of Michigan's forest lands so far this season, Conservation Director P. J. Hoffmaster has reported.

In the two-week hot and dry spell which ended with the recent general rains, Hoffmaster added, an estimated 4,000 to 5,000 acres was burned.

The worst fire of the season burnt over approximately 2,000 acres south of the Porcupine Mountains State Park last week. It was finally brought under control and was extinguished entirely by the rains.

A fire in the Lake Superior State forest six weeks ago destroyed 1,200 acres and another fire in the same area last week burned out 700 acres.

September Too Late For Cutting Second Alfalfa Hay Crop

Farmers who allow the cutting of the second alfalfa hay crop of the year to extend into September are likely to harm the stand of the legume, according to Joseph Heirman, Delta county agricultural agent.

The alfalfa plant needs five or six weeks growing time after cutting to get back into proper condition for wintering. Heirman pointed out. Cutting in September will not leave time for plants to recover to stand freezing this fall. After frost, the plant cannot manufacture more food, so if the plants are not sufficiently strong, winter killing may result.

While pasturing or cutting of alfalfa during September is dangerous, a limited amount of pasturing is advised later on in the fall because it may not do harm, especially if the plants have had adequate time to store food in the roots before frost.

Arrival Of Twins Makes 16 Children In Six-Room Flat

North Adams, Mass., (P)—Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Lescaubeau's private housing problem wasn't eased any by the arrival of twins, for that made 16 children in their six-room tenement.

Harold and Howard, who joined the Lescaubeau family Thursday night, were the second pair of twin boys in the couple's 18 years of married life. The other pair—Louis and Leon—arrived six years ago.

Lescaubeau, 42-year-old carpenter, and his wife 38 list their offspring's ages as 17, 16, 15, 14, 13, 11, 10, 9, 7, twins 6, 4, 3, and 2. Mrs. Lescaubeau comes from a family of 12 children and her husband was one of 19.

But the problem of housing their brood in their half of a two-family house isn't worrying Mrs. Lescaubeau too much. She says she hopes they'll have some more.

President Pledged To Work With Pope For Lasting Peace

Rome, (P)—President Truman and Pope Pius have exchanged pledges to work together for an enduring world peace.

The United States president declared it his aim to encourage the faith that mankind will not live "in the chains of collectivist organization." The pontiff replied that "once the state, to the exclusion of God, makes itself the source of the rights of the human person, man is forthwith reduced to the condition of slave," and the result is war.

The exchange was contained in two letters released simultaneously by the Vatican and the office of Myron Taylor, personal representative of the president to the pope. The president's letter, dated Aug. 6, was handed to the pope by Taylor at an audience Aug. 26, and the pontiff replied that same day.

UNIVERSAL TRAINING

GOVERNOR DEWEY of New York, leading candidate for the Republican nomination for president in the 1948 election, told the American Legion convention Thursday that he is solidly behind the Legion campaign for a universal military training law. It was the first time that the presidential candidate directly committed himself on the issue of national conscription and in so doing, he joined with President Truman, who has repeatedly called for universal training in this country.

It is an ironical contradiction that the United States department of war, which has led the campaign for universal training, concedes that the present American army composed entirely of volunteers has materially increased its efficiency and morale because its personnel is selected from volunteers rather than draftees.

In an address before the Legion convention this week, Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall announced, with great pride, that the army today is accepting not more than 50 per cent of the men who offer themselves for enlistment. Only the cream of the crop is chosen to serve. As a result men of highest character and ability, men with excellent records are forming the postwar army of the United States.

As further contradiction of the army's position on universal training, Lt. Gen. J. Lawton Collins deputy chief of staff, told the Legion's defense committee that only universal training would provide the 1,750,000 men that the nation would need for immediate action in the event of war. Yet he reported that the army today has 600,000 group troops and 400,000 airmen, and plans a national guard strength of 700,000 men. These are all volunteers, trained under a continuous program, and the total is only 50,000 short of the estimated requirements at the outbreak of war.

Universal training to meet a military emergency is one thing but universal training as a permanent policy of the American government is something entirely different.

It is, of course, imperative that we maintain a strong army and navy and military equipment that is second to none in the world. Further, we must keep abreast of the world in the matter of scientific knowledge in the interests of national defense and the well-being of our nation.

Those who advocate universal training have not shown where a year's training under present conditions would be of any material value in a war several years hence.

Double Ruhr Steel

THE United States and Britain have decided to double the output of steel in the German Ruhr, despite objections from France that production should be limited to 10,000,000 tons. Russia, which was not a party to the conference, has objected strenuously that the discussions were held. France's objection to the increase from 5,000,000 tons to 11,500,000 tons annually was predicated upon security reasons, although France in the final determination agreed that German resources must contribute to the general rehabilitation of Europe.

The American government has taken the leadership in the movement to speed up steel production in the German Ruhr because it has been apparent that increased production is vital to the restoration of European economic life. The United States has been pouring vast sums of money into Germany and has committed other vast sums to assist European nations to get back on their economic feet. Restrictions on German steel production thus must be financed in the end by the American taxpayers.

The Marshall plan for economic recovery in Europe pledges American help to European nations but the plan also assumes that Europe will utilize its own resources to the maximum extent possible. Limited steel production in the Ruhr can serve only to retard the economic recovery of Europe and it is in recognition of that fact that the British-American program has called for doubling of steel production in the German Ruhr.

The Russians, who opposed the conference in the first place, will likewise protest the plan to boost German steel output. It is not a question of Russian security but rather a part of the general Soviet program to block European economic recovery so that the seeds of Communism can fall upon more fertile soil.

Russians Oppose Plebiscite

THE Americans and Russians who are in control of the separate zones in Korea are hopelessly deadlocked in their oral consultations regarding plans for the future of Korea so the United States delegation proposed a perfectly reasonable solution to the problem. Why not let the Koreans themselves decide their form of government through an internationally-supervised plebiscite?

This seems to be a perfect answer to the deadlocked negotiations in Korea, but the Russians promptly and vigorously cast it aside. The Soviets instead proposed that the joint commission, composed of the American and Russian delegates, appoint an "all-Korean" peoples assembly to govern Korea. Such an assembly naturally would be heavily overweighed with Communists. The Russians would see to that, since the chief of the Russian delegation, Col. Gen. Terenty Shitikov, has insisted that the assembly be formed entirely from groups "which fully uphold the Moscow decision and do not oppose the commission and the Allied powers."

As it happens only the Korean Communists have not opposed the joint trusteeship so only Communists would be eligible for membership in the so-called Korean peoples assembly, under the Russian plan.

The Koreans want independence, which is why the democratic groups in the country, representing a majority of the people, have opposed the Russian-American trusteeship. They certainly will not get independence under the Russian-sponsored plan, however, because such a government would certainly deliver Korea lock, stock and barrel into the Communist domain and under the thumb of Moscow.

Production Through Profit-Sharing

THERE is obviously no single or sure method of bringing down the present rising prices of most commodities. But in the industrial section of the inflationary spiral there are two remedies which, it is generally conceded, would be helpful if they could be applied. They are better labor-management relations and increased production.

The two go hand in hand. And a possible means of achieving both is found in the Trubey profit-sharing system—which has been attracting considerable attention recently—or in some other plan embodying the same general ideas.

The Trubey system is not new. Developed by R. R. Trubey, a Fremont, O., capitalist, it is based on a profit-sharing plan devised by his present associate, Joseph A. Roeder. The Roeder plan has been installed in more than 70 plants in the past 18 years, and is still operating in all of them but one.

The Trubey system is explained thus in an article on the Ohioan in Look magazine: "Any employee from president to cleaning woman, with the company for two years, becomes eligible, with one year retroactive. He then contributes an automatic 5 per cent raise, but no more than $200 annually, to a fund.

"Each year the company adds 25 per cent of its profits before federal taxes, or up to $3 to the worker's $1. The employee gets his money at 60, or at 50 if he has worked for the company for 20 years. If he quits or is fired, his contribution is returned, plus half the company's. The other half stays in the fund for the benefit of remaining members."

Such a system, of course, raises the collective blood pressure in a couple of schools of economic thought. One school makes lowest possible costs (including wages) and highest possible profits the first consideration, and gears operations accordingly. The other works toward a goal of more and more wages for less and less work, and considers high individual productivity to be a constant threat to job opportunities.

The Trubey plan, and others like it, encourage efficiency and high production. If a company operating under it makes a big profit, everybody hits the jackpot. If it has a losing year, nobody wins. The system seems entirely legitimate and highly sensible, unless one happens to believe in state socialism.

Then, quite naturally, there is the psychological appeal of part ownership. The worker receives dividends for his effort as the stockholder does for his money. This logically leads to a community of interest and a greater striving for good relations by management and labor, since such relations benefit each group.

So the interest that the Trubey plan is arousing seems only natural. It presents a hopeful method of increasing production fairly and quickly, at a time when a still unfulfilled demand for many goods remains a large factor in our high cost of living. It also promises long-range benefits to all concerned—management, workers, labor unions, and the general public.

LET'S LEARN A NEW WORD

In the United States a movement is under way which this column is glad to champion—that of banishing the terror-ridden words "leprosy" and "leper" from the language.

For centuries so much dread and superstitious aversion have been associated with the disease that it has been magnified out of all proportion. Patients since ancient days have been treated as pestilential outcasts, instead of people who have a rare and not-very-infectious disease.

For this reason, the Leonard Wood Memorial, the United States Public Health Service, and the Carville, Louisiana, hospital are urging that the public adopt the medical term "Hansen's disease," after Dr. Gerhard Hansen, Norwegian physician (1841-1912) who, in 1879, discovered the bacillus which causes the disorder.

This strikes me as a very sensible and humane way to overcome the unreasoning horror with which sufferers of the disease have always been singled out. As a matter of fact, there are scores of serious diseases far more prevalent and transmissible than Hansen's. For example, who would regard with revulsion and dread the unfortunate victim of infantile paralysis? Or of influenza? Or of tuberculosis?

Until recent years chaulmoogra oil (chaw-moo-gruh) was used principally in treating Hansen's disease. According to Elsie McCormick in a recent article in

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Berlin—When you actually come up against the German people, it is with a shock of surprise. You see them pulling and pushing carts piled with wood. You see skinny children playing in ruins. You see them working in vegetable gardens in the despoiled Tiergarten that was once the pride of Berlin.

Why, you say to yourself, these are the Herrenvolk—the master race. These are the people who set out to conquer the world. So powerful was the force of the Hitler propaganda, it is hard to realize that it is this same Herrenvolk that now stands respectfully to one side as an American military car passes.

Americans working with the Germans during the past two years describe their attitude as between servility and sullenness. Their surface submissiveness is partly due to a state of shock. They have not yet recovered from the crushing defeat of two years ago.

Germany is still a vacuum, in the view of able observers. To put it another way, the surface of the German mind has been wiped clean by the events of the past eight years. War and defeat were a vast cataclysm which left the German people exhausted and drained of all feeling.

—SOVIET PROPAGANDA—

Now, in the midst of ruin, former allies are competing for a revived Germany. That is the real meaning of what is happening here from day to day. It is clear in almost every event that occurs.

For example, recently the Russians in their zone granted amnesty to all nominal former members of the Nazi party. That is to say, they cleared of blame hundreds of thousands who could show that they joined the party merely to keep jobs or pensions. American officials regarded this as a move on the part of the Russians to win the confidence of the Germans. The Americans knew that they could never bring all the little Nazis to trial in German courts at this late date, so some such move was inevitable in the American zone too. But the Russians beat us to it with a sweeping gesture.

In the contest between the Russians on the one hand and the Americans and British on the other, the Soviets have employed a constant stream of propaganda to the effect that denazification is not being pushed in the other zones. While playing this propaganda line, they in their own zone have forgiven many Nazis who agreed to participate in the Communist-dominated socialist unity party.

The contest over Germany is growing more intense. It reflects the increasing bitterness of opposition between east and west all over the world. The Russians apparently believed that all of Germany would be their prize with the war's end. They counted on a triumph of Communism coming out of ruin and despair.

Long before the Soviets took power in 1917, a union of German technical and organizing capacity with Russian mass and Russian resources was an objective of czarist policy. In the immediate aftermath of World War II, Soviet officials often talked frankly of their expectations. At the time of the Potsdam conference, Vice Foreign Commissar Andrei Vishinsky told an American diplomat that very soon Germany would be a Communist state.

—NEW RUSSIAN "PURGE"—

Events have not happened according to the Soviet timetable. Evidence accumulates that even in their own zone the Soviets have fallen far short of mass conversion to Communism. Their failure baffles and frustrates them. Because they cannot accept any flaw in the religion of Communism, they must find a villain to blame.

This partly explains their mounting fear, suspicion and cries of "Fascist." It is why some observers believe a new purge inside Russia is likely.

At the same time, this is a critical movement in the American occupation of Germany. Basic decisions cannot any longer be avoided. The process of compromise has been stretched far to cover policy up to now. It hardly seems possible to stretch it further.

The man of the crisis is one of the most remarkable Americans to come out of the war—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, military governor. There are generals and generals. Lieut. General John C. H. Lee has made a fool of himself in his little principality in Italy, indulging in the same luxuries and love of pomp that made him slightly ridiculous and not a little offensive all during the war. The Clay story is an entirely different story. Even those disagreeing with the direction of American policy concede that Clay has performed a heroic task under almost impossible circumstances. The man and the job will be the theme of several columns to follow.

Collier's: "After years of trial, the staff doctors at Carville had concluded that chaulmoogra oil was just about worthless."

In 1940, Dr. Louis Bambas, of Parke, Davis and Company, created a new drug—Promin (PROE-min)—for which high hopes are being held by both doctors and patients, although it may be several years before it is pronounced a cure instead of a treatment.

Meanwhile, all of us can add immeasurably to the morale and self-respect of the patients by not giving them the ancient and ominous name which they hitherto have borne. Let us consider them in the same compassionate spirit with which we regard all other persons who are ill. Let us say simply that they are undergoing treatment for Hansen's disease.

MYSTERY—In the mail the other day was a note from Miss Pearl Mattila, Washington, D. C., formerly of Rock. Attached to the note was a clipping from the Evening Star of Washington, picturing a console model radio described as follows: "In antique finished Escanaba knotty pine or genuine mahogany, this cabinet is designed to add elegance to any setting. It is definitely designed to appeal to connoisseurs of fine furniture and to music lovers who appreciate the highest degree of perfection."

Dunathan

music lovers who appreciate the highest degree of perfection." Escanaba knotty pine! Something new (or so we thought) had been added to the local industrial production line. We had heard of Escanaba smelt and tipsters had sent us letters from various parts of the United States telling us that smelt appearing on the menu are always designated Escanaba smelt. But Escanaba knotty pine—well, we would try and find out who manufactured it.

ON THE TRAIL—Remembering that the Delta Furniture Manufacturing company makes cabinets for some of the Admiral radio line, we telephoned Harry Bourke at the Delta Furniture and asked him if his company made a knotty pine cabinet. We told him we had seen one of the Delta Furniture radio cabinets on display at the recent U. P. State Fair and stated our problem in relationship to knotty pine. No, he said, they made no cabinets of knotty pine, but perhaps Hubert Sheppeck of the Sheppeck Dimension and Lumber company might be able to throw some light on the mystery.

GETTING WARM—"Sure, I know about Escanaba knotty pine," said Hubert. "They make knotty pine veneer at the Birds Eye Veneer company. Call Juel Lee."

Knotty pine veneer was something we had never heard of before, probably because we had always thought veneering was confined to the hardwoods, such as the famous birds eye or curly maple.

Knowing very little about the manufacture of veneer, we had supposed that such wood as pine—and particularly knotty pine—would be difficult if not impossible to slice into veneering. Apparently we were wrong. We would find out more. And so we telephoned Juel Lee.

THE ANSWERS—"We have been cutting some knotty pine veneer, a limited amount, for the past 10 years," said Juel, vice president and general manager of the Birds Eye Veneer company. "It is becoming more popular and the amount we are producing has been increased to meet the demand."

We told him about the newspaper clipping sent to us by Miss Mattila from Washington, D. C., and he said yes, he was familiar with the radio with the Escanaba knotty pine cabinet. He said that he had seen one of the cabinets—"it's a breaker!"—at a furniture show in Chicago this year.

AND THE NAME—The only place furniture manufacturers can get knotty pine veneering in the United States is at Escanaba. Burton K. Tuford, vice president and sales manager of the Drexel Furniture company, Drexel, N. C.,

INTO THE PAST

Ten Years Ago

Buffalo—A volley of peace pleas bombarded the Veterans of Foreign Wars today as the ex-warriors opened their 38th annual encampment.

NEA—One name scares little tots, brings dread to high officials in the Kremlin and keeps Comrade Stalin awake nights—Leon Trotsky. The famous exile from Soviet Russia, once the daddy of the Red Army, recently posed in Mexico for a portrait.

Moscow—A train conductor, condemned to death because of a fatal accident, was added tonight to the lengthening list of victims in the Soviet's purge of enemies. A railroad court convicted the conductor as an enemy because he was discovered to be a disfranchised member of the kulak (wealthy farm class) family.

Shanghai—Chinese warplanes bombed American liner President Hoover in China Sea, causing suspension of evacuation of American refugees from China.

Detroit—Similar methods to those now in use in Chicago whereby criminals are subjected to tests by alienists and psychiatrists will be instituted in Detroit, the Mayor, John Smith, announced today.

London—"Say it with pretty women" is one of the slogans brought out at the Olympic Advertising Exhibition.

Detroit—Careless spraying is responsible for much of the poor condition of Michigan's apple crop it was announced this week by Michigan farmer. Over 85 per cent of the fruit was scabby.

Chicago—Opening of the new University of Illinois school of journalism at Urbana has been announced by Lawrence Murphy, who will head the department as acting director.

who is also officially connected with the Birds Eye Veneer company in Escanaba, dubbed the pine, finish "Escanaba knotty pine."

"You would swear that Drexel knotty pine veneer is one hundred and fifty years old," said Juel Lee. "It is antiquated and toned down to a light brown. The picture you have is of the Magnavox radio. I have a Drexel kneehole desk in my office of knotty pine—a beautiful piece of furniture."

Knotty pine veneer in the past has been principally used for small fixture jobs, but Drexel and other lines have utilized it for a limited quantity of furniture for about 10 years. Bedroom pieces and dinettes of knotty pine are among its furniture uses.

MOSTLY SLICED—Most of the knotty pine veneer made by Birds Eye is sliced rather than rotary cut, and it is cut slightly thicker than other veneers—one 20th of an inch for knotty pine compared to one 28th of an inch for hardwood, to be exact. Otherwise the method of producing knotty pine veneer is similar to that of other veneers, and it can also be rotary cut like the hardwoods.

As you are probably aware, nearly 100 per cent of the curly and birds eye maple in the United States is produced in the Upper Peninsula area. It is found elsewhere only in Maine. During the war the Birds Eye Veneer company produced much of the hardwood veneering used in B-29 bombers and other war planes—and some of it went into the Howard Hughes giant plane whose construction in California (it has not yet flown) is the subject for a war contract senate investigating committee probe.

Changing fashions and tastes in

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN

(EDITOR'S NOTE—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

Washington—In the practically daily welter of outcries and charges against men in high office, it is vital to keep in mind that there are many more Americans who have a lofty sense of duty and who serve their country honorably, devotedly and courageously.

Too frequently the distinguished deeds and records of these citizens do not receive the acclaim they so richly deserve. Selfless devotion to public trust, as a general rule, does not make smash headlines. But throughout the nation's history it has been such citizens, big and small, who have fought and won its battles and made the U. S. the mighty world power it is today.

It is the Merry-Go-Round's pleasure and honor to pay tribute to such an American by bestowing on him the brass ring for outstandingly patriotic and distinguished service to his country. Throughout his life, from the field of battle to high public office, he has met every test of selfless citizenship unflinchingly, modestly and valorously.

This great American is Robert P. Patterson, former secretary of war.

In bestowing the brass ring on him, this column in a very small way is endeavoring to make up for the inexplicable failure to decorate him with the high medal he deserved when he retired from office recently. Far lesser men received DSM's and Legions of Merit. Why Bob Patterson was not so honored is a mystery. He merited it outstandingly on every count.

It can be said, of course, that he did not require such recognition. His kind of integrity, courage, and lofty sense of duty need no decoration to embellish them.

Also, in his lapel, Bob Patterson wears the gleaming pin of the distinguished service cross that he won for extraordinary heroism in battle as a young company commander in World War I. A DSM would have added lustre to this DSC, but could not have replaced it.

Yet, it would have been a gracious and eminently fitting act to have awarded him the DSM.

—IRON COURAGE—

Those who know Bob Patterson, know that he unhesitatingly gave up a lifetime position as a U. S. circuit court judge to respond to the late President Roosevelt's request to assume the onerous and thankless responsibilities of directing the logistics branch of the war department. They also know how he worked unflinchingly and fiercely to arm and equip his unprepared country.

But only a few members of his staff know of one particular act of uniquely outstanding fortitude and high sense of duty.

Patterson's only son was an AAF bombardier. The young soldier was a member of the crack squadron selected to make the first raid on the vital Ploesti oilfields in Rumania. It was crucial to smash these installations in order to deprive the Nazis of desperately needed gas and fuel oil. For that reason, the attack had to be made at "Tree Top" level.

The B-17s based 1,200 miles away in Italy, that meant, in effect, a suicidal raid. Any plane that sustained damage had practically no chance of getting back.

On the day the attack was made, Patterson was scheduled to leave Washington on an urgent secret mission in the Pacific. Before he departed, the war department received word that the raid had been very successful but that more than 60 per cent of the bombers had been lost.

It would have been very easy for Patterson, as undersecretary of war, to have ascertained the fate of his only son. All Patterson had to do was to lift his phone and ask for the information.

But he quietly left Washington without seeking or knowing what had become of his boy.

Patterson's concept of duty was so meticulous and inflexible that he would not use his position to gain information not available to the fathers and mothers of the other boys who made that attack.

A week later, far out in the Pacific, Patterson was formally notified by the war department that his son's plane had been shot down. However, the boy had not been in it. Two days before the raid, he had been hospitalized as the result of an injury in a crash.

NOTE: All the members of young Patterson's plane parachuted to safety and were captured by the Germans. After the war, all were received in a prison camp.

—MODERN PROSTHESES—

Another thing that only close friends know about Patterson's service is that he is responsible for the government's belated program to develop modern and effective artificial limbs.

Both the army and navy went to great lengths and cost to give the finest medical care to men who lost limbs. Special hospitals and rehabilitation centers were set up for amputees, who, at the height of the fighting, averaged as high as 1,500 a month. But at that point their efforts ended.

Nothing was done about modernizing the prosthetic devices upon which these handicapped men would have to depend the rest of their lives.

Both services gave the amputees the best artificial limbs that could be bought. But they still were obsolete, cumbersome and ineffectual. There had been no real improvement in artificial limbs since World War I.

In the spring of 1945, Patterson, personally, finally took hold of this tragic problem himself. Over the hidebound opposition of certain army brasshats, he set up a committee of civilian scientists, engineers and surgeons, provided them with ample funds, and put them to work to lift artificial limbs out of the ice age.

A man was knocked unconscious on an Indiana golf course. Moral: keep out of the fore-ground.

For a cool summer dessert, make a peach melba by putting a scoopful of vanilla ice cream into the hollow of a peach half. Pour a little raspberry sirup on top and add a few chopped nuts. Or let sliced peaches or peach sauce top a serving of ice cream to make a sundae.

Have the griddle hot and ready when your hungry morning shift comes in for breakfast. It will be just right for baking if a few drops of water sprinkled on dance about—too hot if the drops go up in a hiss of steam—too cool if they just float.

Jerry Decker, whose official residence is Detroit, but whose wide acquaintance in Manistique, coupled with the fact that he has a summer cottage on Thunder lake and is married to Ann Ksunt, a Manistique girl, makes him something of a local figure, is featured in an article in "Outdoor Life," a sportsman's magazine.

The article concerns a hunting trip in Wyoming in which the wily and fleetfooted pronghorns are the game sought. Jerry's smiling face and a fine trophy picture

Jerry, so the account goes, missed one chance at a splendid buck, but made good later in the day when an antelope, even better than the one he missed, stopped to satisfy his curiosity. That two second pause was his undoing, for Jerry, who is a crack shot pulled him down.

Mize Matches Ruth In Many Respects

Giant Slugger Running Ahead Of The Babe's Record 60

BY FRANK ECK
(P) Newsfeatures Sports Editor

New York—The baseball careers of Babe Ruth and Johnny Mize strike a parallel in many instances. Ruth, when he was in his glory, was a 200-pound slugger standing over six feet, batted left handed and hit home runs.

Mize has these four qualifications. The similarity does not end there, however, for both did their best home run hitting in New York uniforms. Ruth as right fielder with the Yankees and Mize as first baseman for the Giants. In addition, Ruth's wife is Johnny's cousin.

Until this season Mize's best year as a home run hitter was in 1940 when he blasted 43 homers for the St. Louis Cardinals. He is running well ahead of that figure, having hit 36 homers in his first 103 games this season.

In 1927 when Ruth hit 60 homers for the all time record he didn't belt his 36th run bagger until the 109th game. Ruth was 33 one year younger than the present day Mize. The Babe, however, had a great finish that season, belting 17 homers in September. Ruth hit 24 homers in 45 games in 1927.

If Mize breaks Ruth's mark, and there are many who feel he will, much credit will go to the lively ball and the short Polo Ground fences. Outside of the immediate Giant team and front office there are very few people who are rooting for Mize to break Ruth's record.

The feeling is only natural. It

ESCANABA All-Stars, Fast Evanston Team Clash Here Tonight

A fast team of American league all-stars of the Escanaba Softball association, managed by George LaCrosse, Veterans of Foreign Wars team manager, will take the field at 8:45 tonight to battle the strong Norman Ross "fast-pitch" softball aggregation from Evanston, Ill., in what promises to be one of the outstanding softball attractions of the season.

The visitors have captured 33 of their last 35 games and have a crew of softball stalwarts who know all the angles. The melee tonight, which will be preceded by a preliminary at 7:15 between the Knights of Columbus and Farmers Supply, is the first of three games this Labor Day weekend in which the Evanstonians will appear.

Two Games Tomorrow
They are slated to battle another Escanaba all-star group at 3:30 tomorrow afternoon and another, yet, at 8:45 tomorrow night. All games will be played at Memorial Field.

All-stars slated to see action tonight will be notified by Manager LaCrosse.

Wiltred Doucette, Delta Hard-war team manager, will be manager of the American league all-star group for tomorrow afternoon's game, which will be preceded by a preliminary game between the Texaco Stars and Escanaba township, beginning at 2.

Bill Pfister, Paper Mill manager, will lead the Escanaba stars against Norman Ross' athletes in the third get-together at Memorial tomorrow night. DeGrand Oil and Flat Rock juniors will play the preliminary at 7:15 Sunday night.

Evanston Hot Shots
All of the Norman Ross soft-balls are athletes who know their way around Chicago's North Shore, most of them having played high school and college ball in and around Evanston and Chicago for years. One, for instance, Ken Wiltgen, was regular end on the Northwestern university football team and is now holding down Norman Ross' third sack.

Earl Hinz and Matty Rpecki, two visiting backstoppers, are the two top receivers in the Evanston and North Shore leagues this season and both were members of the 1947 Evanston all-star team.

Visiting pitchers will be Bob R. G. Hentschell vs. Tom Beltho. E. J. Thompson vs. Dr. E. J. Brenner. Dr. J. P. Ryan vs. George Johnson. Art Cookman vs. Renold Anderson. Ernie Eklund vs. Dick White. Wm. Norton vs. Ray Price. Andy Mattland vs. Wm. Dewey. Vern Smith vs. A. J. Cavia.

"It Seems To Me"

BY JIM WARD

Gladstone and Escanaba played to a 1-1 six-inning tie last night, a result which confuses the Rainbow Baseball league picture even more, what with a make-up game already slated to be played after the regular schedule closes next Sunday.

Escanaba needs a victory over Gladstone and one over Munising in a make-up game slated for next Monday to share the southern division title. And in order to achieve this for the Bears, a Trenary triumph over Manistique Sunday would be necessary.

Practically everything in the southern division hinges on the outcome of the Trenary-Manistique clash. If Manistique should stop Trenary, it would be all over for both Escanaba and Munising, currently tied for second.

Before we carry this discussion any farther, here are the southern division standings:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Manistique	11	4	.688
Escanaba	9	5	.643
Munising	9	5	.643
Gladstone	9	6	.600
Chatham	8	7	.533
Trenary	6	9	.400

If Trenary should beat Manistique, Escanaba or Munising could tie for first. Munising would have to stop Chatham next Sunday and Escanaba Monday in the make-up game. Escanaba's chances now, in view of the 1-1 deadlock called by darkness in the sixth inning at Gladstone last night, hinge on whether the Gladstone tilt will be replayed and whether it can get by Munising.

As it stands now, all eyes are on the Trenary-Manistique game Sunday. If Manistique wins, Escanaba would not be too concerned with a replay of yesterday's tie with Gladstone. And as far as the Munising-Escanaba make-up game Monday is concerned, only second place would be at stake if Manistique wins.

You're probably looking at Trenary there at the bottom of the standings and saying this to yourself: "What's all the fuss about anyway? Manistique will win—or will they?" That's just it, brother!

Of recent weeks, Trenary, figuratively speaking, has taken a bite of shoe leather and become very tough, indeed. To wit: Two weeks ago Trenary walloped Escanaba, 8-3, and last Sunday, the Trenaryites spanked Gladstone, 10-3.

And with crafty George Brown on the mound Sunday for Trenary, the Manistique Cardinals have a very busy afternoon ahead of them.

BEAR-REDSKIN TILT ENDS 1-ALL

Much Dispute Over Play Made On 'Home-run' Ball

Gladstone, Aug. 29.—The Gladstone-Escanaba baseball game, delayed 40 minutes because of the late arrival of the Escanaba players, ended in a one-all tie, after five innings, with both teams arguing at length.

The arguments arose in the last of the fourth inning, when Jim Paine hit a home run for Gladstone that tied the score. Paine's blow was a long fly to left field, that L'Houllier made a play on as he collided with the snow fence. The ball eluded his glove, and went over the fence. On the play proper, Paine made third base, as L'Houllier returned the ball to the infield.

Amid verbal arguments from both sides, as to how many bases he should be allowed, Paine was waved home by Van Effen, Escanaba umpire, who ruled that the ball having gone over the fence was a home run, despite L'Houllier's having touched it.

MEAT OUTLOOK SLIM FOR 1948

Consumers To Get Less And Pay More, Says Farm Economist

Broken Bow, Neb., Aug. 29 (P)—A top agriculture department economist forecast today that American consumers will get about five per cent less meat next year—and perhaps pay higher prices for it.

Charles A. Burnmeister, economist of the livestock branch of the production and marketing administration, in a speech prepared for delivery before the Sandhills Cattle Association, said:

"The evidence indicates that there will be smaller supplies of all types of meat from cattle, hogs and sheep next year."

"In view of the rather definite indications of smaller meat supplies at that time, I would hesitate to predict that prices would be lower."

Burnmeister estimated that "the total meat output for this year is expected to be about 23,000,000,000 pounds and a reasonable guess for 1948 would be a decrease of 5 per cent or more."

Two major factors, he said, contribute to the prospective decrease in meat supplies next year. They are:

1. The unexpectedly poor corn crop. The 1947 corn crop is the feed for next year's meat supply.

2. Many farmers, taking advantage of record market prices, are sending livestock to slaughter now—reducing supplies available for next year.

The search for additional clues was launched after a filling station attendant and a construction worker at Grand Island, Neb., failed to identify the pair held there as the men who hitched a ride to Omaha with the socially prominent couple Wednesday night.

Bodies of the Mays were found in a clump of bushes two and one-half miles west of Boys Town Thursday morning. The two had been shot in the head with a .38 caliber revolver. Their blood splattered automobile was located later in an Omaha alley.

Six deputy sheriffs, each directing a crew of eight to ten Boys Town residents, set out to comb the territory around the spot where the bodies of the two were found.

The two entered during crowded morning banking hours, while nine employees were on duty and 10 customers stood about the bank. They ordered Allan Eames, cashier, to open the bank vault.

Eames said he didn't know how and the cash teller and his assistant also declared they couldn't open the safe. After a 20 minute stall during which the robbers became increasingly nervous, Eames said, the teller turned the knob.

The cash—$55,000—was dumped into a sugar sack and $3,000 more scooped up at the teller's cage on the way out.

The bandits headed toward a highway that leads across the Cascade mountains.

State Health Chief To Answer Charges Before Gov. Sigler

Lansing, Aug. 29 (P)—Dr. William De Kleine, state health commissioner, has been summoned to a hearing before Governor Sigler next Friday to answer charges filed against him by organized public health officials.

Also invited were officials of the Michigan Health Officers Association and Michigan Public Health Association which Thursday accused Dr. De Kleine of attempting to build a strongly centralized state health agency at the expense of local health departments.

Sigler invited the state advisory council of health and representatives of the Michigan Medical Society to the hearing after reading newspaper statements by Dr. De Kleine in which he accused "politicians" in the Medical Society with "trying to get me because they cannot run me."

Bank Head Leaves Secretary $150,000 After Love Suicide

Los Angeles, Aug. 29 (P)—Claude A. Adams, 67-year-old bank president, who killed himself 10 days ago over the love of his 31-year-old private secretary, left her his entire estate in a new will filed for probate today.

Attorneys earlier had estimated Adams' private fortune at "over $150,000."

The will was written exactly a month before he shot himself in the bedroom of his luxurious new North Hollywood home, leaving a note tucked in her picture frame addressed to Merna Lassen, who resigned in June after 13 years as his secretary. It read, in part:

"To think that you are now in the arms of another man is more than I can stand."

Second Boy Named In Poison Plot At Vocational School

Lansing, Aug. 29 (P)—The second inmate of the boys' vocational school to be charged with the attempted murder of a school official was held for circuit court trial today and jailed in default of $10,000 bail.

The youth, Harold G. Smith, 15, of Detroit, waived examination when arraigned.

At the same time, Municipal Judge Paul C. Younger granted an adjournment of the charges, Alvin G. Chambers, 17-year-old Detroit Negro lad, upon the request of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. NAACP officials asked for time to study the case.

Both are accused of attempting to poison Stephan Hamilton, 33-year-old school cottage manager, with rat poison. State police said the substance turned out to be a harmless paint remover and that Hamilton suffered no bad effects.

Municipal Workers Hold Up Strike In City Of Ypsilanti

Ypsilanti, Mich., Aug. 29 (P)—Municipal services were maintained at normal levels today as an estimated 120 CIO municipal employees postponed scheduled strike action in support of wage demands.

Their walkout originally was set for Thursday midnight, but union and city officials agreed on a 48-hour truce, effective until midnight Saturday.

City Manager N. C. Damoose was reported headed for a special meeting of the city council to discuss the situation. Local 289 of the CIO United Public Workers turned down a five-cent increase and stuck to its request for a 25 cent boost.

State Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard, two members of the State Labor Mediation Board and a legal adviser, were standing by in the event of a walkout. They were ordered to the scene by Governor Sigler on Thursday.

WORK PUSHED TO HITCH UP ATOMIC BOMB

cleus of the next atom and splitting it.

The slowing is done by mixing graphite, water or some other substance with the uranium, but in the new atomic furnace, nothing like this is necessary.

The atomic energy commission calls the furnace or pile its "fast reactor" because it makes use of the fast neutrons. Its construction was proposed in December, 1945.

From the present furnace, it said, the "overall energy release is comparatively small" although "the concentration is intense."

A thick wall of concrete and steel keeps the radiations cooped up, an adjoining room has a panel of instruments for gauging every phase of the experiments.

But the commission gave no hint that it was even close to any sort of atomic power machine that might usher in a new industrial era.

In the core of the reactor, no more heat is produced than in an ordinary kitchen oven. But because the area is so small, special cooling provisions are required to prevent overheating.

Tax On Cigarettes Disappointing In Revenue To State

Lansing, Aug. 29 (P)—The new cigarette tax fell below expectations in its first month of collection, but Clarence W. Lock, deputy revenue commissioner, said the drop was too small to indicate any trend.

He said the three-cent per pack levy produced $1,160,510 in August on July sales, the first month of the tax.

"That is less than the $1,500,000 we have to hit monthly if we are to meet the expected $18,000,000 annual income," he said. "However, we predicted that the first few months might fall short because of the stocks of cigarettes piled up by smokers before the tax started."

Simultaneously, Lock disclosed that the August sales tax collections on July retail business fell off slightly from the preceding month.

This month's collections totaled $15,109,401, an increase of 22 per cent over the same month a year ago, but under July's total of $15,482,000.

curity be jeopardized thereby."

Sir Ian Fraser, president of the 1,000,000-member British Legion, told the convention that the British navy for 100 years kept the peace of the world but said "we can no longer afford to do this."

"We pass the torch to you and our Canadian brothers in North America without regret, without jealousy," he added, "for you have inherited and nurtured our way of life and you will protect it."

He recommended that the United States and Great Britain jointly standardize weapons and share scientific secrets and military bases.
